CHINA TO PRESS SHANTUNG AFFAIR INTO OPEN?

SUPERVISOR OLSON STARTS BATTLE ON LOSEY BOULEVARD

Asks County Board to Return Road to City; Debate Shows Road Never Given to County

CHANGES IN COURTHOUSE FOR JURY ROOMS TALKED

Third Floor or First and Second Floor Hallways, Proposed

Old General Economy was again responsible for a display of fireworks at Monday morning's session of the county board.

Supervisor Olson offered a resolution to return Losey Boulevard to the city, the resolution stating that the boulevard had recently been turned over to the county by the city. Mr. Olson made a speech in which he charged that hidden forces were at work to saddle the county with a $500,000 project, a sort of grand rounds boulevard, that the county should not be compelled to shoulder at this time. Mr. Olson was not specific as to just who it was who was back of this scheme. He merely said that it had come to his attention that such a move was afoot, that "there was a nigger in the fence."

Never Given to County

Mr. Moore of the roads and bridge committee, said that he had no recollection that the boulevard had been wished on the county by the city.

Mr. Yerly then took a hand in the discussion, asserting that the boulevard still belonged to the city that several days ago he had introduced a resolution asking that the county appropriate a few hundred dollars to grade the boulevard so as to offer a connecting link between the Mormon Coulee road and the Campbell road. Mr. Yerly then moved to table the Olson resolution.

Mr. Fletcher took the floor and was informed by the chair that the motion to table the resolution was not debatable. However, Mr. Yerly yielded the point when Mr. Fletcher insisted that the board ought to have more light on the subject. Continuing, Mr. Fletcher said that it had just come to his attention that "something big" was brewing in the city council, that there was something mysterious going on concerning roads.

Move to Table Lost

A vote was then taken to table the Olson resolution and the motion was lost, 20 noes to 12 ayes.

Mr. Moore reopened debate on the Olson resolution by denying that the council nor anyone else was trying to "put over" something on the county board. Mr. Kindley of the road and bridge committee, added fuel to the fire by asking Mr. Olson if it wasn't time to reveal who the conspirators were. Mr. Olson started in to reply but his words were more or less lost in the hubbub.

Chairman Davis sought to end the debate by ruling the Olson resolution out of order. Mr. Olson appealed from the ruling of the chair. At that moment noon whistles were heard blowing, several members moved to adjourn, several more seconded the motion, a vote was taken and the board adjourned until afternoon.

The first business before the board Monday morning was a discussion of the proposed changes in the second floor of the courthouse in order to obtain more and better equipped jury rooms, rooms that will be especially fitted to accommodate women juries or mixed juries. C. W. Noble, contractor, was asked by the buildings and grounds committee, to look over the situation with the board and make suggestions. Two plans were set forth. Either make rooms on the third floor or else utilize most of the space taken up by hallways and stairs on the first and second floors and convert the hall space into several rooms that could be used at some further time. No definite conclusion was reached.

SANTA CLAUS STARTS FOR GATEWAY CITY MERCHANTS ADVISED

Elaborate Plans Outlined for Christmas Opening by Local Merchants

FINE HOLIDAY DECORATIONS TO GRACE THE WHITE WAY

Beautiful Windows and Other Features are Outlined

At a meeting held Sunday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce by a large group of representative merchants, the elaborate plans laid over a week ago for La Crosse's first community Christmas opening were whipped into tangible form.

Street decorations will be one of the features of this occasion Christmas trees, gay with red and green lights will grace the white way posts on both the North and South side business streets. On business streets where there are no white way posts, 12-foot Christmas trees will be placed, and these, too, will be lighted.

Plan Elaborate Windows

Enthusiastic plans are being made by the various merchants in connection with window displays, and it is predicted that La Crosse will be treated to window displays that will bring out crowds of "window shoppers" and "window-washers."

Somewhat of a surprise was sprung at the meeting Sunday afternoon when a messenger boy dashed in the Chamber of Commerce with a message, which is as follows:

North Pole
Nov. 27, 1921

Merchants Bureau,
La Crosse, Wis.

Understand you have planned big Christmas opening. To help things along I have made arrangements to be with you. Am starting today will arrive Saturday, December 3 and will be with you until Christmas. Tell all the kids, young and old, to be ready to greet me.

SANTA CLAUS.

It was immediately decided to prepare a royal welcome for Santa and a special committee was appointed to take care of the necessary details, which will no doubt include a band and triumphant parade to the Chamber of Commerce, where quarters will be fitted up for the jolly old saint.

Opening on Friday

The formal opening of the Christmas season will take place on Friday evening, December 2. All windows will be dark and curtained until 8 o'clock. At a pre-arranged signal the lights will be turned on and the curtains removed, showing the Christmas windows for the first time. The stores will be open from eight to nine, but positively no goods will be sold. The salespeople in the various stores will act as a reception committee while the public inspect the stores in their holiday attire.

There are a number of details which remain to be worked out. These will be announced from time to time.

Sixty men, including manufacturers, bankers, jobbers, retailers, professional men and labor leaders, attended the committee meeting. The Boy Scout movement here was heralded by speakers as one of the greatest agencies for the upbuilding of boys ever started here, and the new organization deserved the support of citizens of all walks of life.

Following are the men who subscribed $100 each, to start the campaign: John C. Burns, Dr. W. E. Bannen, Harry Dahl, Dr. Edward Evans, W. F. Funk, Arthur Funk, J. J. Felber, Frank P. Hixon, John M. Holley, Dr. Dean Smith, F. W. Sisson and William Torrance.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—John C. Quintus, chief civilian engineer of the federal lakes division engineering department, died Sunday at his home here. He had been in the government service 12 years and performed many notable engineering feats, most important of which was the development of the idea of using coffer-dams for raising sunken vessels. LA CROSSE NAMED MEETING PLACE FOR BOYS' CONFERENCE

Newell Holley Elected Secretary of the Conference

The La Crosse delegation to the nineteenth annual Older Boys' conference returned to the city from Milwaukee Sunday evening with the tidings that La Crosse was chosen unanimously as the place of meeting for the conference in December next year. In spite of the keen competition staged by Janesville, the La Crosse delegation carried the necessary punch to put over a unanimous vote to bring the conference to this city in 1922.

Invitations Sent

Formal invitations to attend the conference at La Crosse were sent out by A. L. Meyers, heads of the Boys' Work department of the local Y. M. C. A. Monday. The invitations were endorsed by the board of directors of the "Y", the Chamber of Commerce and various civic organizations and churches throughout the city. Allen Davey, who has attended five Older Boys' conferences, supported Mr. Myers at the Milwaukee conference in his invitation to the delegates to come to La Crosse.

At the business session, Newell Holley, member of the local Y. M. C. A., was elected secretary of the conference. Louis Falb, student at the normal, was elected chairman of the resolution committee. The offices of the conference include a president, six vice-presidents and a secretary. Ten years ago, when the conference was last held in La Crosse, E. W. Brandenburg, La Crosse, was president.

The total registration of delegates to the conference from the entire state was 600. Outside of the city of Milwaukee, Madison led with a delegation of 28, while La Crosse held third position in the number of delegates with a total of 20. At the student conference, which was held in conjunction with the Older Boys' meet, there were fifty-three in attendance.

Expect 700 Here

Local officials anticipate that in the neighborhood of 700 delegates will attend the conference held here next year as a result of increased interest taken in the work by the institutions all over the state.

In order to secure the conference for this city next year, the La Crosse delegation began campaigning as soon as they reached Milwaukee. Tags bearing the inscription, "Check my baggage to La Crosse, December 1-3, 1922", and "I'm going 20th Wisconsin Older Boys' Conference, La Crosse, 1922", were attached to every coat lapel of every delegate at the conference. So confident were the La Crosse delegation that titles of "Head baggageman" and "Chief passenger agent", were given to Mr. Meyers and Mr. Whittredge by delegates of the conference.

Local Delegates

Following are those who attended the conference at Milwaukee: Leaders: A. L. Meyers, Allen Davey and A. B. Whittredge. Older Boys: Newell Holley, Mark Esch, John Ray, Frank Hickisch, Alfred Bosshard, Milton Kosbab, Carleton Jones, Poland Mabie, Leland Palmer, Harold Ahrens, Byron Mulder and Willis Jones. Student delegates: John Esch, Louis Falb, John Kutzborsky and Stanley Heiland.

BRITISH PREDICT SUCCESSFUL END OF NAVAL DEBATE

WASHINGTON.—By The Associated Press.—The British armament delegation through an authorized spokesman took occasion again Monday to let it be known there is every reason for belief that the arms conference will be a success. The British spokesman said: "I have good authority for saying that the American, British and Japanese delegations are all optimistic and quite satisfied as to the progress made. The subjects referred to committee are under discussion and there seems to be every probability that their reports will be made at an early date."

SEEKS ABROGATION OF "21 DEMANDS"

DISPOSED TO IGNORE JAPS' HUSH POLICY

Determined to Force Showdown in Present Conference Regardless of Japanese Opposition

REPORTED CHINESE WILL ACCEPT THE CONSORTIUM

To Suggest, However, that Chinese Bankers be Included in the Financial Syndicate

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Will the celebrated Shantung question, which has so stirred public opinion in both the occident and orient, find its way into the Washington conference?

This question occupies a prominent place in the thought and talk of delegates, though open references to it are most guarded. In some quarters a desire is shown to avoid it if possible, on the ground that it might interrupt the hitherto harmonious trend of the conference.

Japanese View Differs

The Japanese standpoint is that it is unnecessary to discuss the matter, because Japan stands ready to open direct negotiations with China for restoration of the leased territory of Kiauchau and the withdrawal of troops.

Chinese delegates say the Chinese people do not want either the Shantung question or that of the 1915 treaty settled in either Pekin or Tokio. Wellington Koo, a member of the Chinese delegation, said China will press before the conference for the unfettered return of Shantung and abrogation of the twenty-one demands. Unless China is outmaneuvered on the diplomatic chess board in the corridors outside the conference itself, it was declared, the two questions undoubtedly will be carried before the present meeting.

Japanese spokesmen have suggested that they are prepared to discuss in the conference the 1915 agreement from the standpoint of whether it is in contradiction to the principle of the "open door." Such a contingency is believed to mean, however, that Japan would insist upon a new arrangement with China clearly fixing her right to the renewal of the lease of the South Manchuria railway, which soon expires.

China to Accept Consortium?

China's commitment to the international financial consortium headed by Thomas W. Lamont may result from this conference. The Chinese government and people have so far refused to accede to this plan of the bankers to develop the public utilities of China, but the delegates are now working on an argument expressing their views on the consortium.

This will be presented this week in the committee on far eastern affairs. It may result in acceptance of a modified plan, but is equally potential as a source of trouble. Last week when the British delegation presented its views of the consortium the Chinese delegates felt like quitting.

Chinese Feel Better

First steps taken toward China so far will result in giving her greater funds and relieving her from milder forms of foreign control. Feeling a genuine desire on the part of the powers, including Japan, to be more just and less offensive toward China, the Chinese officials are inclined to view the financial project with more favor. They will insist on a Chinese banking group being admitted to the consortium, which now consists of America, Japan, Great Britain, France and Belgium. Italy also wants to come in.

P. O. Out in 1923

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By The Associated Press.—A resolution declaring for relinquishment of foreign postoffice privileges in China was adopted Monday by the nine powers sitting as a committee on Pacific and far eastern questions.

The date of January 1, 1923, was set for the abandonment of foreign postoffices and this was agreed to by all the powers represented except Japan, whose representatives asked for time to hear from their government. They are expected eventually to agree to the plan.

The nine powers' committee deferred final action until Tuesday on the question of extra territorial rights in China. The principle of closing foreign courts in China, it was said, was agreed to but consideration of the formal resolution went over.

French, Italian And Jap Spokesmen Endorse Plan Of Harding World Society

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(By the Associated Press.)—Spokesmen of three of the participating powers in the arms conference, Senator Schanzer for Italy, whose delegation he heads, Vice Foreign Minister Hanihara for Japan, and Rene Viviani, head of the French delegation, have endorsed President Harding's informal suggestion that the present conference might be a starting point for a continuing series of conferences to examine world problems. Senator Schanzer expressed the conviction that adoption of the plan would "represent the greatest and most beneficial result of the Washington conference", while Mr. Hanihara said he believed Japan would be ready to take part in any future conferences, "with the great object of maintaining a harmonious co-operation of the powers and world peace."

Borah Starts Backfire

A voice in opposition to the proposed "association of nations" was raised simultaneously by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who declared it would be the "old league of nations under another name. It would "engage in precisely the same kind of work," said the Idaho senator, adding: "It is not what you call it but what it is that counts."

British Press Says Little

LONDON.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Harding's suggestion for a continuing series of international conferences, the conclusions of which will be observed under a "gentlemen's agreement" is given prominence in the morning newspapers, but there is little comment on it.

The Westminster Gazette thinks that the suggestion, like Secretary Hughes' proposal for limitation of navies, is "profoundly important and profoundly right." Admitting, it says, that the present conference possibly will not achieve any great practical results, the possibilities from further meetings are almost unlimited.

The newspaper looks hopefully for the development from such a series of conferences of some new association of nations which will "embody and extend the authority of the present league of nations."

ANTI-FRENCH RIOTS IN ITALY EXTEND TO ROME; WIRTH TO ANSWER BRIAND

SIMONDS SAYS:

Anglo-French Squabble is Nothing to Get Excited About

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Now that the Anglo-French differences of opinion have reached a stage where they occupy the headlines and more or less dominate the gossip of the Washington conference, there are three essential facts which must be recognized: First, that the Anglo-French quarrel is private, that is, not open to volunteers; second, that it represents a chronic, not a critical condition, and third, that it is not going to affect materially or seriously the progress of the present gathering at the American capital.

Ever since the armistice, all through the Paris conference, and with ever-increasing bitterness in all the conferences of ambassadors which have followed the Paris gathering, Anglo-French differences have been cropping up. French and British necessities, interests and policies in Europe are radically different and frequently conflict. But it is worth recalling now that the French and the British have dwelt together in neighborly amity without armed conflict for more than a century, and in Britain's only two European wars in that time she has been associated with France as an ally.

Want U. S. Backing

It was natural and perhaps inevitable that England and France, coming here to the Washington conference, should both desire American support for their respective policies and that some of the journalists on both sides should eagerly seek to enlist American support and resort to attack upon their neighbors as a means to this end.

The result has been perfectly simple. The British journalists have attacked the French army and the French journalists in due course of time, supported by the French prime minister, have resorted to a suggestion of the revival of the naval armament question as a counter-offensive to the British attack. This counter-offensive has been so successful that British nerves have been disturbed quite as much as were French nerves over the criticism of the army. There you have it with the bottom of the fact in the situation. Before he went away M. Briand said flatly that no French desires in the matter of naval strength, submarine or otherwise, would be permitted to interfere with Mr. Hughes' navy program.

As for the British official attitude as contrasted with the course of some of the British journalists, but by no means all of them, it has been generously correct from the beginning. Mr. Balfour is an indispurable friend of France. His remarks following M. Briand's great address were more than a literary or an oratorical effort. They were a genuine expression of sympathetic emotion and downright friendship.

French Have Reason

The French discussion of naval conditions has a measure of justice in it. When the war came France was engaged in transforming her navy and had a certain number of capital ships building or on the way. She was obliged then to stop the construction of all her ships and use all her steel

EUROPE SEETHES WITH EFFECT OF FRENCH STATEMENT

Western and Central Part of Continent Rings With Echoes of Washington Affair

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By The Associated Press.—Published reports alleging use of harsh words by Premier Briand of France while in Washington against Senator Schanzer, head of Italian armament conference delegation, were formally denied in a statement made Monday by Chairman Hughes at a meeting of the conference committee on far eastern and Pacific questions.

The reports which have led to much comment in Europe and to demonstrations against the French in Italy, were said by Mr. Hughes to be without foundation. M. Briand, Mr. Hughes asserted, had used no words that could give offense to Italy in any manner. Rene Viviani also denied the reports.

ROME.—By The Associated Press.—Several demonstrations against the French embassy were attempted Saturday as an aftermath of the excitement caused by the publication of Washington dispatches alleging the use of harsh words by Premier Briand of France against Senator Schanzer during a meeting of the committee on armament at the Washington conference. The police each time dispersed the demonstrators.

There were further anti-French demonstrations Saturday night in Genoa and Naples.

The Fascista Saturday issued a manifesto urging all citizens to "exalt the glorious Italian army which saved France and won the world war."

ADMINISTRATION OF SMYRNA BY GREECE FAILURE--VANDERLIP

American Financier Returns from Economic Survey of Europe

SAYS ALLIES MADE MISTAKE IN GIVING MANDATE TO GREECE

Peace Hopeless Until Internal Warfare is Ended

CONSTANTINOPLE. —Frank A. Vanderlip, New York financier, who has been making an economic survey of European countries, said when he visited this city that, in his opinion, the Allies committed an act of "tragic political folly" in giving the Greeks a mandate over the Smyrna area. He declared that the Greek administration of that territory and of Thrace and Macedonia were "towering monuments of failure."

He said peace in the Near East was hopeless so long as Asia Minor was convulsed by a deadly warfare between the Greeks and Kemalists. All the economic blunders in the Versailles treaty, which resulted in such terrible consequences for Central Europe, he added, were repeated in the Sevres agreement.

"If a man put into a ring two mighty bred bulldogs," said Mr. Vanderlip, "and told them to divide the quarters and live peaceably, his act would be as likely to result in peace as was the act of the Allies in permitting the Greek army to enter this part of the world. The present conflict in Anatolia," he continued, "is paralyzing the whole of the Near East. There can never be peace and order, commercial activity and stability, nor a restoration of confidence until the Greeks are made to return to their homeland and the Turks are given a chance to get on their feet."

Mr. Vanderlip, who came to Constantinople from Athens, criticized the Allies with equal vehemence for the boundary lines they set in southeastern Europe. "The Greek frontier," he observed, "has been brought to within bombarding distance of Constantinople. Bulgaria's outlet to the Aegean Sea has been given to Greece and the certain seed of future war sown."

The American financier discussed the confused political situation in Constantinople and said there was a noticeable lack of harmony between the Allies. He believed that the Sevres treaty, which was designed to represent the terms of peace between the Allies and Turkey had failed completely of its purpose and had been ratified by no one. "There is an intense rivalry," he declared, "among the big powers for commercial zones of influence, and a disposition to ignore the United States and undermine American prestige."

"It is true," continued Mr. Vanderlip, "that the United States has never been at war with Turkey, that technically we have no position in a city under military occupation by the three Allies, that we have declined to take the responsibilities of a mandate and of our own will have withdrawn politically from participation with the Allies in the administration of the affairs of Europe.

"All that is an academic excuse perhaps for the absence of any disposition on the part of the Allies to cooperate with our High Commissioner. I think a broader point of view by the Allies would lead them to work more closely and harmoniously with our officials here."

Mr. Vanderlip paid warm tribute to the work of Admiral Mark Bristol, the American High Commissioner. "I doubt," said he, "whether a better man could have been found to represent the United States. He has gained the respect of everyone and is a vigorous representative of the best American spirit. He combines broad naval and military experience with keen administrative capacity, sound judgment, and exceptional tact and diplomacy."

FRAUDULENT TAX RETURNS CHARGED BY THE GOVERNOR

Errors so Flagrant as to be Almost Certain Evidence of Fraud Says Statement

STATE WILL BEND EFFORTS TO ENFORCING HONEST RETURNS

Many Discrepancies Due to Misunderstanding of Law

MADISON, Wis.—Errors in certain income tax returns made by large corporations of the state are so flagrant "as to be prima facie evidence of fraud," Governor Blaine says in a statement Saturday, in which he declares that steps will be taken by the tax commission to recover all lost income resulting from discrepancies.

"The state will exercise every power it has by law to enforce honest returns and the collection of taxes which should have been made but which have been fraudulently or otherwise withheld," the governor states.

"My attention having been called to the gross discrepancies in the income tax returns by the tax commission, and it appearing that by limitation of the law, that the commission will be powerless to investigate the returns of 1917 after December 31 next and returns of 1918 after December 31, 1922, I have taken immediate steps to give the commission adequate funds of employ such experts as may be available to check the returns."

During the past three years the tax commission through office and field audits has discovered $14,000,000 of unreported income, which has resulted in an increase of $1,500,000 to the state income. Approximately 200 of the larger corporations of the state have been investigated.

Most of the discrepancies in returns are due to misunderstanding of the law and oversights by corporations, Thomas E. Lyons, chairman of the tax commission says. He is not certain that the addition of several investigators to the force, as authorized by the emergency board, will result in very great additional returns, although of the opinion that much more than the $40,000 allowed will be brought back in the form of taxes.

Iceland Short of Ice

Strange as it may seem, Iceland sometimes runs short of ice and the results are quite serious for Iceland. Herring fishing is the principal industry of the country and ice is required in large quantes for packing the fish. On the north coast of the island there is ice without limit, but there are no means of transporting it to the districts where it is required. Hence the urgent appeals for shipments of ice from other parts in order to save the herring industry. Under these circumstances, Norway comes to the rescue.

WITHHOLD NOT GOOD

WITHHOLD not good from them to whom it is due, when it is in the power of thine hand to do it.—Proverbs 3, 27.

Let Farmers Lead

JUDGE A. H. LONG proposes a new farmers' organization. That makes it worth while to know something about Judge Long. To begin with, he is a very engaging gentleman. He seems genuine. People like him. They say he is whole-souled and sincere. To end with, Judge Long is legal counsel of the railway commission, and a political associate of Senator La Follette. Knowing these things, it may be deduced that insofar as Judge Long can control, the new farmers' organization is conceived in honesty of purpose and will square with the political philosophy of Senator La Follette.

If we are correctly informed, Judge Long has in mind a farmers' organization devoted to practical questions of farming and committed to practical means for its economical improvement. The society would not deny itself the use of its political influence in furtherance of its aims, but with it politics would not be an end, but merely a means to an end. For it was politics as an end rather than as a means that brought to discomfiture the ambitious projects of the North Dakota Nonpartisans and reflected discredit upon the league movement in this state.

But reading the personnel of the meeting in which Judge Long's organization was born, one may ask whether the personalities upon which it drew may not serve at the outset, so far as public opinion is concerned, to baptize it as the offspring of the Nonpartisan League and to suggest that it is an economic tail attempting to wag a political dog. Without exception, if we make no mistake, these men are Leaguers. Two, it is said, are from North Dakota. Without exception they are men to whom politics have become a fixed habit, an obsession not unrelated to the rewards of political office. Among theirs is no name which memory associates with farm economics, nor can more than one or two be called practical farmers.

Has the ostrich hidden by sticking its head in the sand? Did these men impose themselves upon the meeting? Or were they chosen by Judge Long, and if so, did politics, seeking to masquerade, find a way to suggest them to him? The working farmers who make up the Nonpartisan League in this state might be made into a powerful influence for the rescue of agriculture from exploitation and its establishment upon a sound economic basis, nor could Wisconsin have better fortune than such a consummation. But any farmers' organization advertised under the names of professional politicians widely known in connection with socialistic and communistic radicalism at once becomes the very thing from which Judge Long evidently sought to escape. Changing the name of the Nonpartisan League will avail nothing unless the leadership bears new names. A sound body without a good head is worthless. The public will not be fooled, the farmer will not. He is a very practical person.

A primrose by the river's brim
A yellow primrose was to him.
And it was nothing more.

Judge Long states a very practical proposition. He outlines a useful program. Convinced by Judge Long's reputation, we have no question of his sincerity. The internal dissensions of Equity, and the petering out of Nonpartisanism, present the opportunity. We had hoped there would come a leader sensible of the great chance for constructive organization. Personally, Judge Long "looks the part". He is a new and refreshing figure in state-wide farm leadership. But farmers will see the old feet in the trough, and they are tired of carrying swill. There are thousands of real farmers in the state capable of leadership. Why not a farm organization headed by farmers?

Prompt and Right

IN six months bandits have robbed mail cars of approximately three-quarters of a million dollars. The United States postoffice department has been driven to stern measures. It has manned mail cars with armed marines, with orders to shoot to kill where that is necessary to protect the mails. Prudently executed, the step is justified by conditions.

But it could not have been the intent of the government that mail guards should shoot on suspicion. That is what happened at De Pere. Reports agree that victims of the shooting sought to beat their way on a train, and hence their status was that of trespassers. But the law does not make trespass a capital crime, and it certainly does not justify official lynch law. The guards at De Pere could easily have arrested the intruders. It appears that shooting, which even as an official act is one of last resort, was in no sense justified.

Governor Blaine is attempting to bring the guards who committed the De Pere shooting back into the state for trial. Probably he will fail, as the state can not requisition men in the military service. But his efforts have served to bring the incident sharply to the attention of the postmaster general, and the duty of the latter is plain. There should be a rigid federal investigation, and if the current reports as to what happened are true, the culprits should face a court martial. There are too many gunmen in America now. Uncle Sam can not afford to turn gunman. In any event Governor Blaine's action is calculated to have a sobering effect. It is improbable that United States mail guards will again run riot in Wisconsin.

In the same period, the assessed valuation of real estate in New York City has increased more than twice as much. And that is only part of the real valuation on which rents are based.

The same inflation of real estate values is steadily going on in La Crosse and in every other city.

It makes you wonder whether some of the bricks hurled at industrial corporations should not be reserved for land values. Single taxers claim that rising land values absorb wealth as fast as human labor creates it. Right or wrong, it is worth serious thought.

Land values may be the "kitty" in the poker game of wealth creation.

Educating Caleb

BY A. W. PEACH

"So I think a man in choosing a wife should go at it as he would a business proposition; then he is on solid ground and not up in the clouds from which he may tumble later on with a bump. I have studied a list of available girls and have decided that your daughter is the one, Mr. Mattison. Have I your permission to lay the matter before her?"

Mr. Mattison leaned back in his deep library chair and gazed through his bushy brows at the frank open features of the man opposite him. The older man smiled inwardly as he remarked openly: "Mr. Andrews, I do not object to your laying the matter before Edna. I know enough of you to know that as far as character is concerned and the ability to give a girl a good home, you are all right. As to making a business proposition of the matter of a wife, why I have my doubts. I would like to see you try."

When Andrews's tall muscular figure had vanished down the walk from the pleasant Mattison home, Mr. Mattison sent for Edna. "She came in, rosy from some outdoor recreation, her brown eyes sparkling, her bright hair holding still the imprisoned sunlight.

"Sit down, Ted; I must put you 'wise,' as you say it, to something," her father announced.

"A secret—good!" she answered.

"You bet it is. Andrews has been here, and he—well, he has a business proposition," Mattison began and went on to outline Andrews's idea of a love affair.

Edna listened with grave eyes that at the same time were seething with amusement. "So I am the party of the second part?" she queried. "What an idea! Go out to win a girl as you would buy a sack of potatoes."

"Andrews is simply out of his element, that's all. He was an orphan, grew up in one of those schools, and has been fighting his way up in business; so he doesn't know."

"I should think he didn't! Well, I'll teach him!"

"Now, lass, be good to him. You are the girl he selected from a long list, after he had gone over the points of each one. Anyway, don't be too hard on him. But a bit of education might help."

"I think so. You keep a weather-eye out, dad, and see what happens."

Andrews came the next day in his car. Edna was ready for him, ready for what she thought would be a highly entertaining afternoon with a new kind of male. She discovered immediately that he would need a lot of educating.

He took her to the home he had bought, a delightful spot commanding a view of the river and the sea. As they finished their stroll about, he paused and said simply, "I wish to offer you this home, Miss Mattison, and——"

"And yourself with it?" she questioned.

"Of course," replied, a bit puzzled. "As to my character and business, your father has all the facts, though I will go over the mill you wish."

"He does need educating," she exclaimed to herself. "Yes, but you left something out of your proposition—a commodity called 'love.' Doesn't that enter in?"

"That is a minor matter and will follow in due course."

"Is it?" she demanded, a little angry. "It is important to me, I want to be wooed and won—and loved."

He looked at her quietly, and she saw a new light in his eyes, dim and far-burning; and suddenly it came over her that he was desirable—clean and fine in character, of the type who are true to one woman until the hills give up their dead.

"Look!" she said gently, "I want you to come to a little good time at my home tonight. Now don't say you won't."

He came, looking the quiet strength that was in him. Puzzled and awkward at first, he thawed out. One of the men who evidently knew something of him led him to tell stories of of the lumber camps of the far North, where his business called him each year. They were fascinating tales. All in all, it was an interesting evening, and she knew that part of his education had begun.

She saw to it that it continued. She drew him from his business into her pastimes. She discovered a deep bubbling stream of quiet fun in him; she saw that he was getting more and more in love with her—but he didn't know it! Now and then she caught some of her flirtatious friends trying to play with him, attracted by his grave masculine air of assurance and command, but they gave him up. She smiled as she watched, and gradually, though she fought it, she felt a feeling of possession; he belonged to her. The realization amused and sobered her in turn.

Then he came one evening unexpectedly with the news that business called him North. As she faced him she saw in his eyes a great hunger for her that stilled every bit of mischief in her.

Suddenly, as he talked, he put his arms on her shoulder. "Edna, before I go, I must have your word that when I return you—you—will marry me!"

"As a business proposition?" she asked gently.

His expression changed. "Don't, please, I was a fool. I didn't know then. I do now. I want you—want you—love you!"

With a sudden strength that frightened her, he drew her to him, and in his eyes she saw the intense fire, white and holy, of the love that awakened hearts of strength can show. "Tell me, Edna, tell me!"

She relaxed in his arms, a sense of peace and content upon her. She nodded for answer, and his lips, firm but gentle, rested on hers.

When she had gone she found herself in a bit of daze.

Her father appeared in the doorway. "Caleb has just told me, honey. It is a business proposition?"

She hugged him greedily. "It is—and a lot more!"

OLD SLATS

Because he was such a thin, dejected-looking horse, they had named him "Old Slats." His master was an Italian fruit peddler, a big, fierce-eyed man who never spoke a kind word.

Tony, the peddler's nephew, was Old Slats' only friend. Tony was a quiet, sober boy. Years before both his parents had died. He could not remember when he had not worked. As an uncle's helper, Tony found his greatest pleasure his daily association with Old Slats.

Tony would rub the horse's nose gently. Sometimes when the peddler was cruel to the animal, Tony would put his face on Old Slats' neck and the horse would feel something moist dripping on his hair. Aware of Tony's devotion, Old Slats' big wish was that some day he could do Tony a good turn.

One bitter cold day the peddler had given his horse less to eat than usual, and had left him without a blanket. Old Slats began to feel strangely weak; the world swam around. He fell in his harness.

A crowd gathered as the Italian peddler tried to pull Old Slats to his feet. When the horse didn't move, the man jerked angrily on the harness. Tony watched in frightened silence.

Suddenly the boy jumped down from the wagon seat. "Don't you hurt dat horse!" he cried fiercely. "You stop!"

In a rage the peddler turned to the boy, seized him and shook him. Then, to his surprise, Tony was jerked away by a strong hand. Old Bordi, owner of a string of vegetable wagons, held the boy close. In his slow way he addressed the peddler.

"You leave dis boy go. He's a good boy. Good horse, too, if you treat him right. How much you sell him for?"

Quickly the old peddler, eager to get rid of the exhausted horse, named his price.

Bordi counted out the money. "And," he continued, "I take dis boy for good measure. My boys all grow up and gone." Bordi held Tony protectingly. It was only the crowd that prevented more trouble.

So once again Tony cried on Old Slats' neck, but this time for joy.

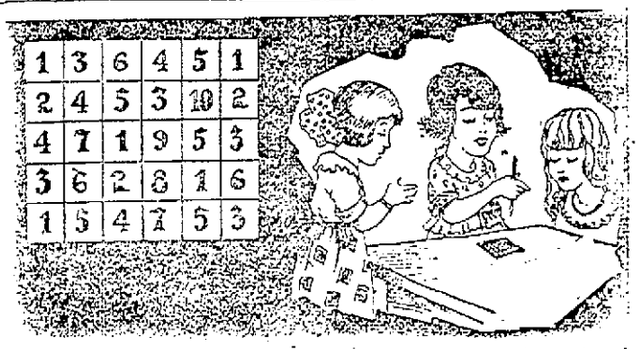
NEW FORTUNE-TELLING CHART



What is more fun on a winter night than to tell fortunes?

Clip out the little numbered square in the picture. Mount it on a piece of cardboard.

Take a pencil in your hand. Close your eyes. Circle your hand over the chart. Bring the pencil point down on it. Open your eyes. Note the number on which the pencil rests.

Do the same thing once more, and then for a third time. Note the number each time. Let us suppose that your three numbers are 3, 10 and 7. Add them together. They total 20.

In the list of "fortunes" below, number 20 is, "In the near future you are to meet a famous person."

Because 3 is the lowest combination of numbers on the chart, the fortunes will begin with that number:

3. You are going to write a book.
4. Before this week ends you will find a new friend.
5. You will be wealthy.
6. Keep your eyes open. Some money has been lost.
7. You can learn to sing well if you will try.
8. You like to travel and some day you will journey to a foreign land.
9. The indications are that you will pass your examination if you study hard.
10. When grown you will be very wise.
11. You are to have your photo taken soon.
12. Before this day is through you will have a good laugh.
13. This is your lucky number.
14. You are to paint a picture.
15. You are naturally very courteous.
16. Will-power is a big asset; cultivate yours.
17. You are the kind of person to be trusted.
18. You are blessed with good health.
19. Beware of a dispute.
20. In the near future you are to meet a famous person.
21. You are of very noble traits.
22. You are to be invited to a party.
23. You will be a great editor.
24. Yours will be a large family.
25. Your life is to be very happy.
26. You will invent something.
27. You like to make and do things.

TODAY'S PUZZLE

A Canadian city and a large city of the United States are hidden in this sentence: "Commence, Bouquard, and read the first paragraph, which begins, 'Welcome back, Roy; we now have our whole family here.'" Answer tomorrow.

Too Many Women?

BY DR. WILLIAM E. BARTON

THE impression is that America is short of potential husbands. There are in fact 104 men to every 100 women. Every census from the beginning of America has shown an excess of men over women. More male children than female are born. More men than women immigrate from other countries to America.

But men do not hold their advantage. They die in childhood more easily than girls. They weaken their hearts by the excessive use of tobacco. They are more subject to accidents. They are more exposed to fatalities in war.

In the times of Isaiah a situation was described in which seven women would lay hold on one man and offer to support themselves if he would marry them all. This merely means that after war has killed off large numbers of men, there is great shortage of husbands, and an abnormal social condition.

In the United States there are still more men than women, but this is due largely to foreign immigration. Native-born young women have not any more than an even chance of getting a husband. In Nevada there are far more men than women, notwithstanding the number of women who go there to be divorced.

But in Massachusetts a woman has only ninety-six chances out of a hundred of being married, and would have less but for the immigration which comes into that state and remains there.

In the older states, the ratio of men to women is usually less than in the newer ones. A woman in the west has a better chance, arithmetically, of marrying, than in the east.

Most school teachers marry, and that is well. The school officials do not like it, but the marriage of teachers deserves to be encouraged. The average school teacher is likely to be a good wife and mother.

A majority of stenographers marry, and that is well. They ought to marry. The training of children in the school room is in general better preparation for matrimony than office work; but on the other hand, a majority of stenographers live at home and have some domestic responsibility.

America is not depleted of its manhood. An enormous majority of our girls who grow up will have husbands. That is an encouraging fact for the girls, and not less so for the men whom they are to marry.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR SUCCESSFUL OPERA SEASON IN CHICAGO

Advance Subscription Largest Since Association Was Organized in 1910

SEASON OPENS WITH MURATORE IN "SAMSON AND DELILAH"

Score of New Artists Brought from Europe by Mary Garden

CHICAGO.—Chicago music lovers have deposited over three hundred and fifty thousand dollars with the Chicago Opera Association as their retainer for the present season of grand opera. This is the largest advance subscription the institution has registered for any season since it was founded in 1910. General Director Mary Garden, who took the reins toward the last of the season, chose opera for the first week which represented equally the French and Italian schools, and expects to maintain these proportions throughout the season with occasional interpolations of Wagner and Strauss operas in German. Giorgio Polacco returned as chief conductor after an absence of two years.

Miss Garden returned from Europe recently bringing a score of new artists to strengthen the organization, six of whom made their debuts in the first week. These include Lina Cavalieri, prima donna with the Metropolitan and Boston Opera companies, who made her Chicago debut as Tosca; Edith Mason, American lyric soprano, whose Chicago introduction occurred as Madam Butterfly Wednesday night, Eleanor Reynolds, American contralto was heard for the first time here as Amneris in "Aida"; Jeanne Schneider, French soprano, and Paul Payan, French basso, in other roles; and Adolfo Farrari, Italian conductor from La Scala, Milan.

The familiar stars of other Chicago opera seasons, who are appearing with the company again this season include Mary Garden, Amelita Galli Curci, Rosa Raisa, Florence Macbeth, Cyrena Van Gordon, Irene Pavloska, Edward Johnson, Forrest Lamont, Charles Marshall, Ricardo Martin, Tito Schipa, Georges Baklanoff, Hector Dufranne, Giacomo Rimini, Joseph Schwarz, Desire Defrere, Octava Dua, Sallustio Civai, Edward Cotreuil, Virgilio Lazzari, Constantin Nicolay, Vittorio Trevisan, Andreas Pavley and Serge Oukrainsky with the Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet and Pietro Cimini, conductor.

More new artists to be introduced in later weeks include Jeanne Dusseau, Claire Dux, Helen Goetchel, Maria Ivogun, Mina Koshetz, Lydia Lipkowska, Mary McCormic, Alice Hermanoy and Graziella Pareto, sopranos, Theodore Ritch, Richard Schubert and Antonio Rocca, tenors, Vincente Ballester and Joseph Schwar, baritones, Edward Lankow and James Wolff bassos, and Gabriel Grovles, conductor.

CITIES MAY EXTEND TAX-PAYING PERIOD IS MORGAN RULING

Six Months' Extension Possible Attorney General Advises Eau Claire Official

MADISON, Wis.—Common councils of cities are empowered by laws enacted during the 1921 legislature to extend tax payment on assessments for city purposes, six months, Attorney General Morgan advises Victor M. Stolts, district attorney of Eau Claire county, in an opinion Saturday.

Tax payments become delinquent February 1, unless time for meeting the assessments is extended, according to the state law. Under the recent statute, if the common council authorizes extension, persons who are unable to pay because of unemployment or sickness, may present affidavits stating their condition, and secure a six months' extension.

When taxes become delinquent an additional two per cent is added to the required payment, with one per cent each month added for every thirty days during which payment is put off.

The six months extension privilege was formerly allowed in Milwaukee, but extended by the last legislature to all cities of the state. It was called for because of conditions in some sections of Wisconsin where unemployment had made it impossible for large numbers of people to pay on or before February 1.

One of the last acts of the legislature was to grant this provision for tax extension by city councils, if they see fit. It is expected that the law will be welcomed by a number of state cities.

AT THE THEATERS TODAY

Rivoli—"The Sheik," with Agnes Ayres and Rudolph Valentino; Pathe Review.

Majestic—Justine Johnston in "A Heart to Let"; Harry Sweet in "Stealin' Home"; Fox News.

Riviera—Nazimova and Rudolph Valentino in "Camille"; Al St. John comedy, "Ship Ahoy"; Paramount Magazine; Riviera orchestra.

"THE SHEIK"—RIVOLI

What promises to prove one of the reigning sensations of the current screen season, "The Sheik," a remarkable Paramount picture produced by George Melford, was shown with unusual success at the Rivoli theater Sunday night. The photoplay is a picturization of E. M. Hull's remarkable novel of the Sahara desert which is now numbered as one of the best sellers in the literary market.

The role of the Arabian tribal chieftain, Sheik Ahmed Ben Hassen, is portrayed by Rudolph Valentino, the handsome young actor who sprung into instant popularity by his work in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." He is a romantic actor and makes a perfect picture as the colorful warrior-lover of the desert wastes. Agnes Ayres, the newly created Paramount star, plays the featured lead—the haughty English girl who is captured by the Sheik and forced to do his bidding. The story tells of the strange love between these two characters and the many vicissitudes which are undergone before a perfect understanding is finally established between them.

WILLIAM FARNUM—STRAND

William Farnum, the famous Fox screen star, will be featured today and Tuesday at the Strand in Mr. Farnum's latest film success, "His Greatest Sacrifice." This is a photoplay of tremendous dramatic suspense. There is a heart-interest thrill in it that is gripping and tense. It is the story of the great sacrifice of a father for his daughter, after his wife, who sought and won success on the operatic stage abroad, has deserted him and then became infatuated with those who were responsible for her meteoric rise to stage fame. Paramount Magazine is on the same program.

MARY ROBERTS RHINEHART PICTURE AT THE CASINO

There are few boys who have not dreamed of being king of a cannibal island, with dusky slaves to answer their commands and untold wealth at their disposal. And there are few who reach that age of adventurous dreams who have not also found themselves at times thinking of some pretty little girl playmate, who would make a fine white queen for the cannibal kingdom. Mary Roberts Rhinehart has woven all the ambitions and love of youth into her story "It's a Great Life," a Goldwyn-Eminent Authors Production at the Casino today and Tuesday. A Jimmy Aubrey Comedy, "The Back Yard," is on the same program.

JUSTINE JOHNSTONE—MAJESTIC

As a perplexed young aristocrat who has inherited fine traditions and a huge but run-down colonial mansion, Justine Johnstone makes a charming heroine in "A Heart to Let," opening at the Majestic theater. The girl decides to take a few boarders, to support her young brother and a spinster cousin who is also on her hands. She disguises herself—or tries to—as an old lady of appropriate dignity and unattractiveness, calculated to keep the boarders in awe of her, but even the blindest one, impersonated by that popular actor, Harrison Ford pierces her disguise and marries her in spite of her protest.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago, the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

MME. NAZIMOVA AND VALENTINO SCORE IN 'CAMILLE'

Photoplay Based on Dumas' Famous Stage Masterpiece Opens Run at Riviera

It is obvious why Nazimova is called "the incomparable." This brilliant actress' performance in "Camille," shown Sunday at the Riviera Theater, where it began a run of three days, evinces such a mastery of technique and exceptional quality as makes her deserve the epithet to perfection. Here she is at her best, and it is no exaggeration to say that in this picture she shows herself one of the greatest actresses of the screen.

In "Camille" Nazimova assisted by Rudolph Valentino as her leading man has done for the silver screen what Bernhardt, Eleonora Duse, Clara Morris, Olga Nethersole, and Ethel Barrymore did for the stage. These artists won fame for their interpretation of the role of "Camille." Nazimova, no less than they has endowed the part with a charm and power.

Local picturegoers will not miss this picture. It is rarely that such a masterpiece is seen, seldom that a great drama and a great actress are united. And after seeing the picture, one easily understands the statement that it is one of the finest love series of all times, and that the play still thrills and delights, seventy years after being produced in Paris.

Nazimova has the role of Camille, the woman of the underworld whom the love of a law student lifts to heights of devotion and sacrifice, and who returns to her shoddy, pitiful life upon learning that her sweetheart has abandoned his career for her sake.

It is a poignant tragedy that will not fail to hold interest until the very end.

Nazimova's supporting cast includes Rudolph Valentino, celebrated for his performance in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "The Conquering Power;" Edward Connelly, Rex Cherryman, Arthur Hoyt, Zeffie Tilbury, Ruth Miller, Consuelo Flowerton, Mrs. Oliver and William Orlamond.

DAYLIGHT MOVIES IS INVENTION OF DAVENPORT MAN

DAVENPORT, Iowa.—It will no longer be necessary to sit in the dark at the movies, according to A. F. Victor, secretary of the National Society of Motion Picture Engineers, who Monday announced the invention of a machine which he says will permit of daylight motion pictures.

Mr. Victor's invention reverses the present order of movies. The light, instead of being reflected from the rear of the theater is now reflected behind the screen. It is possible to have full daylight in the room and yet have perfect pictures on the screen.

MRS. JOHN SHERMAN PICKS 3 PANSIES IN YARD OF HER HOME

When Mrs. John Sherman of 1802 South Eighth street, went to her front door Monday morning she was greeted by a rare sight. In a flower box in the front yard blossomed and bloomed three pansies. She plucked them and carried them into the house as souvenirs of the near-Florida weather the south side is enjoying. There are still three buds on the pansy plant.

EQUITY TO MEET AT EAU CLAIRE TUESDAY FOR ANNUAL SESSION

Former Secretary to Oppose Pommerening for President of Organization

DISCUSS MEANS OF IMPROVING FINANCIAL STATUS OF SOCIETY

Houston Faction also Would Eliminate Politics

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—The Wisconsin Union of the American Society of Equity opens its annual convention here Tuesday. Developments of importance to the future of the organization are expected during the four day session.

Reports of committees and business matters occupy the important places in the program, with consideration of the proposed organization of a state-wide association of the dairy interests for marketing purposes, to be considered on December 2, the concluding day of the convention.

Two factions have developed in the society, one headed by E. C. Pommerening, president, and the other by J. B. Houston, former Secretary, who was recently removed by the board of directors in order to conserve funds according to the board announcement. Houston is a candidate for president against Pommerening and has the backing of one faction.

Two proposals are to be advanced by the Houston following at the convention, its leaders announce. One if accepted, would make the executive committee responsible to the membership by giving sufficient bonds so that if expenditures exceed the provisions made by the budget, members of the committee will be liable on their bonds.

This is said to grow out of the present financial status of the organization, which is reported by the Houston delegates to be somewhat involved and in arrears. President Pommerening, however refutes this view holding that the financial condition of the society is sound, and that satisfactory progress has been made during the past year.

The other proposal to be offered will call for the divorce of the society completely from party politics. Only the right to appear at platform conventions will be reserved, in order that the organization may demand planks favorable to agriculture and marketing in the interests of the farmers.

It is not believed that serious opposition will develop to the second proposal of the Houston group, which may also offer amendments strengthening the by-laws of the society.

President Pommerening will describe the progress made by the Equity during the past year, a year which he says has been especially hard for farm organizations because of agricultural depression. He expects to show the convention that the financial status of the Equity society has not become serious during his administration, and that figures published do not tell the true condition of affairs as they actually exist.

The proposed organization of the entire dairy industry of the state into a system of co-operative marketing, will be thoroughly discussed at the convention. The plan calls for a comprehensive program which would unite the cheese-makers, creameries and milk companies into one organization co-operatively managed.

F. M. Elkinton, Milwaukee traffic expert will make the one address of the convention, explaining the need for a department to care for traffic difficulties. The society will then decide on whether or not it will organize a traffic department.

"When some boy wishes to make an engagement with you and you don't care to accompany him or to have him call, just flatly say so.

"Don't estimate the desirability of a boy's association by the creases in his trousers.

"A certain amount of rouge and powder is necessary. But don't do your make-up so that it's obvious.

TEST GOVERNOR'S PARDON POWER IN HEARING TUESDAY

Oneida County Sheriff Called to Explain Failure to Release Pardoned Prisoner

MADISON, Wis.—A test of the governor's pardon power in contempt of court cases, is expected to grow out of the final hearing Tuesday afternoon on the complaint against Sheriff Hans Rodd of Oneida county, for refusal to obey Governor Blaine's pardon order freeing Peter Christ from the Oneida county jail.

The governor was going over facts in the case Monday, preparatory to the hearing which will commence before him Tuesday at 2 o'clock. At that time issue will be drawn over authority of a state's executive to pardon in civil contempt cases, a power which it is expected will be tested in the supreme court before final disposition is made of the controversy.

Sheriff Rodd will be held here personally to explain why he failed to obey Governor Blaine's order calling for release of Christ, who was serving a four months' sentence imposed by Judge A. H. Reid of Wausau for contempt of court, following his violation of an injunctional order. He will be represented by Attorneys E. R. Goggins and C. F. Smith while the governor's council will be F. N. Wylie.

Since the last session before Governor Blaine the sheriff has returned the envelope in which he received a copy of the complaint sent him by the governor to determine whether the answer of Sheriff Rodd to the complaint was filed within the ten day period allowed by law, and if it should be received.

There is a prevailing belief here that Gov. Blaine intends to remove the sheriff for his action, and that a court appeal will follow testing authority of the executive to grant pardons in contempt cases.

TRAFFIC TOWERS TO BE MADE ARTISTIC AS WELL AS USEFUL

Utilitarian Structures to be Replaced With Towers in Keeping With Fifth Avenue

NEW YORK.—Having found Fifth Avenue's traffic signal towers useful, the police department now has determined to make them artistic.

The five utilitarian structures, located at strategic points along New York's show thoroughfare, will be replaced with towers in keeping with the architectural beauty of the avenue. A design has been selected from a hundred submitted by artists competing for prizes offered, by the Fifth Avenue Association.

The new towers, almost entirely of bronze will rest on granite bases and rise 23 feet above the street. The lower part will be open and the upper part, enclosed in glass, will give an unobstructed view up and down the avenue. Fending blocks on each corner of the base will fend off traffic and protect the tower.

The traffic police who will occupy the artistic observation posts have been much interested in the endeavor to make the towers as artistic as possible.

"They'll be putting silk curtains in the window before they get through," said one.

"And maybe a bit of lace," said another.

THREE LIVES LOST IN THEATER FIRE AT NEW HAVEN SUNDAY

Scores Trampled Under Foot and Injured as Panic-Stricken Crowd Flees from Exits

22 YALE STUDENTS REPORTED TO BE AMONG THE INJURED

Incense Burned on Stage Believed to Have Started Fire

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Three lives were lost and 70 persons were more or less seriously injured when fire broke out in the Rialto motion picture theater Sunday night. It is possible further search of the ruins of the playhouse will add one more name to the list of dead, as R. H. Perrine has not been seen since the fire was discovered and the panic-stricken crowd surged toward the doors of the theater. His son was among the injured.

Fifty-eight persons who were either burned or trampled by the crowd which rushed toward the exits when the flames swept into the theater from the stage are in hospitals. Twenty-one who were taken to hospitals when the fire was raging were given treatment and sent to their homes. Twenty-two of the injured were Yale students. All will recover, it was declared.

Only one body, that of Timothy J. Hanlon, 38, had been identified Monday morning. It was believed he was trampled to death. Examination of his injuries showed his neck was broken.

Two other bodies taken from the theater were burned so badly that identification was impossible.

Coroner Mix began an official inquiry into the fire.

"We are inclined to the belief," he said, "that the fire might have been kindled by incense burned during the photoplay being shown at the Rialto."

The playhouse was crowded. Suddenly sparks were seen dropping down in front of the screen. There was a shout of "Fire" and panic seized the crowd. There was a rush for the open, but most of the people tried to get out at the main entrance instead of using emergency exits at the sides. Many cool headed persons attempted to restrain the crowd but their effort was futile, as was that of the orchestra which continued to play.

Many in the balcony leaped over the rails and fell on the heads of the struggling people below.

Many children poured toward the exits and many parents were injured while trying to lift them above the press about them.

The theater building was a frame structure which burned like matchwood. Yale students were active in the work of rescue, dashing into the burning structure and assisting the people to safety.

TITTEMORE BACKS "DARK HORSE" FOR EQUITY PRESIDENT

Alex Rayburn, Former Vice-President, is His Choice in Fight

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN
(Special to The Tribune and Leader-Press.)

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—Equity's annual "linen washing" is on. Hundreds of Equity farmers are pouring into this city bringing their factionalisms and grievances and demanding either recognition or fight.

The first bomb to shatter the whispered buttonholing and candidate jockeying was a n official statement from J. N. Tittemore in which he withdrew as a candidate for the presidency of the society.

Backs Alex Rayburn

Tittemore, however, is "involved" in a candidacy. It was learned, positively, that Alex Rayburn, Arkansas, Wis., vice president of the Wisconsin Union under Tittemore during his last term, of 1919 to 1920, is the "man up his sleeve."

Rayburn is a young man, a devout "Tittemore man." Rayburn made no effort to deny his candidacy. He did earnestly urge, however, that any statement at this time "would be premature." "See J. N. on everything concerning me," was his request. "J. N." told Rayburn to say nothing.

As the former president and his protege have it figured out, Rayburn holds the "balance of power." Just what this balance is no one seemed to know. What may be the situation was explained by Thomas Nimlos, Madison, the former "big chief" of Tittemore's lieutenants.

According to Nimlos, Tittemore has become convinced that he can not be elected. He is anxious for control of the society primarily to re-establish himself as a political entity for the 1922 campaign. In Rayburn, a popular man, he sees the big opportunity for making a "come back." He would be the "man behind the throne" with the former vice president as president.

Look for Bad Report

Going the rounds of the lobbyists this morning was a story that some startling data will be unfolded when the annual audit of the society is made. It was stated that the audit made on the past year shows a far worse condition in the society than an audit made on the first eight months' business which created a furore when made public.

This first audit showed a deficit of some $16,000 and a drop in the members of more than 11,000. According to some definite statements the yearly audit will show still further drops.

SCORES STATE FOR ATTEMPT TO ANNUL PICKFORD DIVORCE

CARSON CITY, Nev.—Declarations that the attempt of Attorney General Leonard B. Fowler of Nevada to set aside Mary Pickford's divorce from Owen Moore "violates every principal of institutional government" and "is the first of its kind and should be the last" were made by Miss Pickford's attorney, Gavin McNab, San Francisco, in an answer filed in the state supreme court here Monday to Fowler's appeal from District Judge F. P. Langan's ruling upholding the decree.

Miss Pickford was granted a decree of divorce at Minden, Nevada, March 20, 1920, by Judge Langan and in a short time married Douglas Fairbanks.

On April 16, 1920, Attorney General Fowler filed an action at Minden asking that the decree be set aside, "in the interests of the state of Nevada." On June 25, 1921, Judge Langan upheld the decree and Fowler appealed to the state supreme court.

ORGANIST'S CASE AGAINST PRIEST OF INDEPENDENCE IS ON

New Trial Ordered by Supreme Court in Case of Ogodziski Against Father Gara

The case of Adam Ogodziski, who sued the Rev. Andrew W. Gara, pastor of the Polish Catholic church of Independence, Wis., for damages for the alleged loss of services of his wife, Mary, who was ejected from the choir loft of the church at Independence, was called for trial in circuit court, Monday morning. Judge Fritz of Milwaukee is sitting on the bench in place of Judge Higbee who has gone to Judge Fritz' circuit.

Ogodziski's case was first tried before County Judge Richards of Sparta. A verdict for $3,500 was given in Ogodziski's favor. The case was appealed to the supreme court, where the decision was reversed on errors in instructions to the jury.

Mrs. Mary Ogodziski also sued Father Gara, with Charles Marsele's and Simon Skrock, trustees of the church, and the two men who escorted her from the choir loft on orders of Father Gara, as co-defendants. She obtained a verdict for $8,000. The supreme court likewise reversed this judgment on the same ground as in the case of her husband. Mrs. Ogodziski's case was heard by Judge Anderson at Whitehall.

The jury was empaneled Monday morning and statements of the case made by attorneys.

EUROPE SEETHES WITH EFFECT OF FRENCH STATEMENT

demonstrators aroused by reports of Premier Briand's alleged slur against the Italian army.

Spur Wirth to Lash Briand

BERLIN. — By The Associated Press. —Now that Aristide Briand, the French premier, is homeward bound from the Washington conference, the newspapers here are urging Chancellor Wirth to abandon his reserve, at least to the extent of informing the American public of the "uselessness of A. Briand's arguments in support of France's attitude on disarmament."

The newspapers say the Wirth government did not desire to engage in acrimonious controversy with M. Briand while he was the guest of the United States, but that now the chancellor will be expected to discard the considerations of etiquette and make a plain spoken declaration of Germany's case.

To Appear Before Reichstag

Dr. Wirth will appear before the reichstag committee on foreign relations with the purpose of discussing the French premier's utterances at the Washington conference. The Boersen Courier demands that the chancellor shall lose no time in opposing what is termed "French agitation," and that, if need be, he shall go before the reichstag in the nation's defense.

The Boersen Journal expresses the belief that American ears will not be deaf to the presentation of Germany's case. This newspaper declares that, while France annually is recruiting fresh military classes, there are 400,000 Germans who would have been eligible under the old army organization to be called to the colors each year now left without military training.

"French Man Power Overwhelming"

"The preponderance of man power on the French side under those conditions," the newspaper continues, "is so overwhelming that Germany, if relieved by the Versailles treaty for another generation, could not equalize it within a further period of twenty years. Does Briand actually fear German lust for revenge?

"Even if it were possible to manufacture war material for a German army of 1,000,000 within a period of a few years, the question of man power would definitely have been decided against Germany, as she would have been obliged to face trained French formations with irregularly organized reserves. Who would be the aggressor under such conditions? We are willing to leave the answer to American logic."

DISPOSED TO IGNORE JOPS' HUGHES POLICY

Chinese railways. The question, however, went over for consideration at another meeting of the full nine powers Tuesday morning. The Chinese railway question, according to Chinese representatives would necessarily involve the matter of Shantung, which is regarded as one of the big problems of the Washington conference.

It was said there was general assent to the plan of the sub-committee of which Senator Lodge is chairman, for an international commission of jurists to go to China and study Chinese court administration. Senator Lodge's sub-committee was called to meet later in the day to draft the final form of the resolution.

In adopting the resolution for abandonment of foreign postoffices the committee decided to add a provision for adherence to the plan of other nations, not represented in the conference, having a few postoffices in China. Denmark, Sweden and one or two other nations were said to have postal stations, and the resolutions were broadened to provide for adherence of such nations to the agreement for closing foreign postoffices.

The sub-committee headed by Senator Underwood of the American delegation appointed to deal with Chinese customs will meet Tuesday to begin its study of the question.

first to munition her own guns and later supply our artillery also. The result was that the end of the war saw her reduced to nothing as a naval power, while the United States, Japan and great Britain had throughout the war expanded their navies rapidly and greatly. The point which the French make is that it is not fair to them to take their present status as a basis for reckoning their future strength by comparison with other countries.

This, however, is merely an academic exercise since the French do not intend to build capital ships, primarily because they lack the money. As to the submarine episode, it was Mr. Hughes who suggested the submarine as a weapon of defense. When Mr. Balfour appealed from the American decision and asked to have the submarine abolished, the French saw a move in the game and promptly came in on the American side. The British, who cared very little about the American submarine at once took alarm over the French.

But the important fact in all this row is that the English and the French have been in a state of mutual suspicion, distrust and worse for a long time, and that for centuries there has been a ground work of misunderstanding between the two countries, accentuated by rivalries and in the past emphasized by war.

Curzon Looking East

Too much importance is ascribed to the Curzon announcement in London at which was not, I have every reason to believe, suggested by the British delegates in Washington or necessarily in accordance with the desires of that delegation. What is mainly disturbing Lord Curzon is that the French have made a bargain with Kemal Pasha, whereas the British are backing Greece in the near east. The French in Syria have a common frontier with the Turks and want peace at almost any price. They dislike King Constantine from of old, and they are intensely bitter and jealous over British supremacy at Constantinople. But this is nothing more or less than another characteristic European quarrel over respective interests and without the smallest suggestion of moral value on either side.

The Anglo-French quarrel is not going to disturb the Washington conference seriously because the French and British representatives here appreciate perfectly that the American people will hold them both equally responsible if the conference is wrecked or even impaired by this squabble. We had almost exactly the same kind of rumpus in Paris over Syria. It went on for days and led to every kind of recrimination; it poisoned the air and depressed the atmosphere and made endless trouble; and in the end Anglo-French interests were compromised and we had an approximate settlement without any trouble. At the dec. stage, French and British statesmen invariably go to dinner together, leaving the innocent American observers hopelessly bewildered.

The main difficulty at the moment is that the French are morbidly sensitive over the rejected attacks that have been made upon them as militaristic and imperialistic, whereas they regard themselves as pacific and condemned against their will to bear military burdens which should be shared by their associates in the war. Since most of this criticism has come from British sources their resentment is obvious and perhaps understandable.

On the British side the essential truth is that the restoration of peaceful conditions in Europe has become a matter of life and death for a very considerable portion of the British population, which can only find work and earn a livelihood by serving these markets. These people see France's policy and the French army as menaces to their own existence.

The whole flurry in Washington now is a clear case of nerves. It would be ridiculous if it were not that it is having at least a temporarily disturbing effect upon the conference and is confirming American prejudice against all European associations. The thing that it seems difficult to make the French and British representatives, and particularly the French and British journalists, realize is that successful attacks by either do not help the assailant in American eyes, but actually injure both the attacker and the attacked.

In any event Anglo-French relations in Washington and out of Washington having reached the present point, it requires only the smallest recollection of years to forecast that we shall now have a speedy improvement. Conditions were much more acute last August when Britain and France were on the point of breaking over the question of Upper Silesia. There seemed no way to prevent a complete collapse of the entente when M. Briand and Mr. Lloyd George agreed to send the Upper Silesian dispute to the league of nations, and that was the end of it. Having thus agreed they went out quite amicably to the president's shooting box and had a quiet day in the country together.

Despite all the excitement, real and imaginary, it is perhaps no indiscretion to say that Mr. Hughes is today as confident of the success of the conference as at any moment since it began and apparently little disturbed by all the impending shadows of "the next war," whatever the French and British may do in Europe they are not going to break up the conference in Washington. Mr. Balfour has very sympathetically accepted the French decision on the matter of their army. In due time one may expect the French to abandon their submarine performance, which always represented a journalistic and diplomatic offensive rather than a serious proposal.

VIVIANI PREPARES TO SAIL FOR HOME IN MID-DECEMBER

WASHINGTON.—By The Associated Press.—Rene Viviani, head of the French delegation at the armament conference has engaged passage to return home on the French line steamer Paris, sailing December 14, provided the work of the conference has been concluded by that time.

M. Viviani, it is understood, has been suggesting to his fellow delegates that they should speed up the work of the conference. His view is that if the work of the conference is allowed to drag the favorable effect will be diminished.

It will be a cold day in December when the next income tax payment is due.

FATTY ARBUCKLE ON STAND TO TESTIFY IN HIS OWN BEHALF

Found Girl Ill in His Room and Helped Her to Bed, He Claims

DENIES CHARGES MADE BY WITNESSES FOR PROSECUTION

Claims He Invited Only One Woman to the Party

SAN FRANCISCO.—Fatty Arbuckle took the stand Monday in the manslaughter case against him.

Arbuckle said he came to San Francisco from Los Angeles September 3 and stopped at the Hotel St. Francis. He named the guests at the party in which he is alleged to have fatally injured Virginia Rappe, saying he had invited no one to the party but Mrs. May Taube.

"I found Miss Rappe in my room," Arbuckle said." She was on the bathroom floor very sick. I assisted her. She was holding her abdomen and I gave her some water."

"I helped her into bed," Arbuckle continued. "She said that she had dizzy spells often. Then I went back to the bathroom. When I returned Miss Rappe was on the floor rolling and moaning. I placed her on the bed again.

"While I assisted her Miss Prevost and others entered the room. I went into another room and when I came back Miss Rappe was on the bed tearing her clothing."

Arbuckle said he was dressed in bathrobe and underclothing. The bathrobe was introduced and he identified it.

Arbuckle told of taking Miss Rappe from the room and into another room with the assistance of Harry Boyle, assistant manager of the hotel.

The door leading from his room to the corridor and a window of the room were open, he said.

"I did not hear Miss Rappe say 'He hurt me' or say anything that could be so understood," he testified.

He denied having forced Miss Rappe against the door or having told Alfred Semnacher, a guest of the party, that he applied ice to Miss Rappe's body. He denied testimony by J. J. Norgard, janitor of the Culver City, Calif., motion picture studio that he offered Norgard a sum of money for a key to Miss Rappe's room.

DENY MISTREATMENT OF BRITISH ALIEN AT IMMIGRANT STATION

WASHINGTON.—By The Associated Press.—Secretary of Labor Davis in a letter Monday to Dr. L. L. Doggett, president of the International Y. M. C. A. college at Springfield, Miss., denied that Mark Glanville, an English alien and his wife and baby had been improperly treated on passage through the immigration station at Ellis Island. The case became notable three weeks ago when the British foreign office gave out information that diplomatic protests had been forwarded to Washington on the subject.

Mr. Davis declared the Glanville family had received special attention and sanitary accommodations while in detention and concluded that Mr. Glanville's statement as to encountering a situation contrary to this should be "branded as a gross exaggeration and a deliberate misrepresentation of the facts."

GIRLS, COMPARE YOUR FORM WITH GERTRUDE EGGET'S!

Girls, put on your best bathing suit, stand in front of a full-length mirror, and compare your form with Gertrude Egget's.

A New York jury of artists has declared she has the most beautiful form in the United States. But who's going to admit that any New York jury knows everything about beauty? And, anyway, this jury didn't have all the evidence before them, did it? Your opinion is as good as theirs.

Miss Egget lives in Fresno, Cal., is 25, stands 5 feet 7 inches, and weighs 136 pounds.

She has the famous Venus de Milo backed off the boards, say the artists.

She has been supporting her crippled father by working in an office. Now she is debating between accepting a $1,000 prize and a movie engagement.

NEW YORK OFFICIAL TELLS FAT FOLKS HOW TO GET THIN

Proper Diet, Regular Exercise and Proper Habits all that is Necessary, He Says

NEW YORK.—A great many fat people in the United States and Canada avowedly want to become thin, but don't know how. By the hundreds they have been confessing this desire in letters to City Health Commissioner Copeland. Their selection of him as the person who might take a weight off their shoulders was suggested by accounts of his recent mobilization of a reducing squad of fifty fat men and fifty fat women in New York.

These hundred heavyweights have been shrinking daily and the letters from outside New York inquire how Dr. Copeland does it. It's simple, he says. Proper diet, regular exercise and proper living habits are all that is necessary.

"You cannot be happy unless your stomach is full," the doctor tells the fat folks. Then he explains what foods they should eat to keep happy, eliminating all those which produce fat. Some of the foods they may eat in abundance are celery, buttermilk, radishes, endive, lettuce, tomatoes, watercress, clams, whites of eggs, chicken without the skin, suet, white meat of lobster, codfish, pears, apples, grapefruit, lemons, oranges, rhubarb, lean meat and skimmed milk.

"The greatest mistake people make is the selection of their food," Dr. Copeland contends. "The average meal is poorly balanced. This is particularly so of breakfast. Imagine wanting to get thin on a breakfast on a meal like this: cereal and cream, hot muffins with butter and honey, sausage and possibly some fruit covered with sugar. This entire meal is made up of starches and sugar, which adds flesh and very often as an added offense it is washed down with tea, coffee, or cocoa saturated with sugar."

Dr. Copeland lets his squad eat fruit for breakfast, except bananas. He barred sugar and white bread, and opposed the drinking of water with meals because that makes the room and the inclination for more food. Cereals are all right, he says, if a tablespoon of bran is added instead of sugar.

He recommends Swedish exercises. But if the ambitious heavy insists on his calisthenics being 100 per cent American, the United States army setting up exercises are just as good as any other. These can be practiced within the privacy of the home, provided the home is of sound construction and the neighbors pleasant. One of Dr. Copeland's squad confided that every time she began bending and jumping there came complaints from the occupant of the apartment below.

NEW VITAMINE TONIC FOOD PERFECTED AT ONE OF OUR LEADING MEDICAL COLLEGES

Provides the Growth-Promoting, Strength and Life-Giving Elements Lacking in Our Daily Food—La Crosse Druggist Interested

Leading medical men of the country have for some time been advocating dietetic treatment rather than medicinal for many of the conditions for which medical tonics have been prescribed in the past.

Malnutrition, under-development of children, general debility, simple anaemia blood impoverishment, loss of weight and run-down conditions respond rapidly to a properly balanced diet; that is, the addition to the daily food of a balancer which contains all the life-sustaining and growth-promoting elements so often lacking in our regular meals.

Vitamines—the curious growth-promoting, health-giving elements found chiefly in milk, yeast, leaf vegetables, eggs and the outer covering of rice, wheat and other cereals—are often eliminated from the modern diet because of scientific milling and overcooking.

Until those vital elements are supplied, the body cannot attain its highest development, the system is weakened, and a lowering of vitality is the result.

Now science has discovered an easy way of supplying these health-building vitamines in the wonderful new tonic food called SUSTO—which was perfected by Dr. Philip B. Hawk, Professor of Physiological Chemistry at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

Before SUSTO was offered to the public he subjected it to the most rigid tests and pronounced it the most perfectly balanced tonic food on the market.

SUSTO is not a medicine. It is a food balancer—it adds to the daily diet all the growth-promoting, strength, and life-giving vitamines of yeast, rice, eggs, milk, with beef protein and iron that we are not getting otherwise, and which are as necessary as fresh air to sustain life.

Therefore if you need strength—lack energy, are nervous, anaemic, run-down, thin and ailing—SUSTO will nourish the shrunken tissues, create strength, build up shattered nerves and energy.

Ask them about SUSTO at the Boeschler Brothers Drug Store. If you try the treatment for one month at a cost of 10c a day and you are not in better health every way—weigh more and feel stronger they will return your money.—Advertisement.

GREEN BAY PACKERS BEATEN BY STALEYS ON SUNDAY, 20 TO 0

Game Marked Eighth Victory for Famous College Stars this Season

CHICAGO, Ill.—Green Bay Packers were beaten 20 to 0 by the Staleys at the Cub park Sunday afternoon, making eight wins for the victors this fall. Green Bay put a hard fight, and was cheered on by 300 rooters from the Wisconsin city.

Green Bay brought along a brass band, the musicians being garbed in the Woodmen's costume. Their "On Wisconsin" sounded like old times to the many Badger grads who went out to see their old favorites, Cub Buck, Guard Wilson, and Halfback Klaus in action.

The Staley attack, which moved smoothly after it once got started, proved too much for the Packers. In the first quarter the Green Bay men threatened the Staley line. Lambeau, Notre Dame star, making two tries for a place kick, one went short and the other was blocked.

Score in the Second Quarter

Early in the second quarter the Staleys got the ball on downs at their own 23 yard line, and then started a march down the field, Pete Stinchcomb, Ohio State's All-American, finally broke away on an off tackle wallop and pranced 45 yards for a touchdown. Sternaman kicked the goal.

They got busy again in a hurry, "Dutch" Sternaman aiding largely with his brilliant run after catching a forward pass. He was tackled twice, and each time wriggled away. The former Illinois star made 10 yards on the play. After several wallops at the line Pard Pearce finally bucked through for a touchdown on a quarter back plunge, Sternaman kicked the goal.

Count on Forward Pass

Near the end of the game, a number of gains, followed by a forward pass to Sternaman, placed the ball on Green Bay's 25 yard line. A few plunges carried it to the 10 yard line, where a forward pass, with Halas catching the pigskin resulted in another touchdown. The try for goal was missed.

"I. W. W.'S" TAKE THREE STRAIGHT IN GAMES ON SATURDAY

Looks like the Modern steam laundry employes are in for a "set up."

In the match games of the Modern steam laundry and the Ideal Wet Wash laundrys, the "I. W. W.'s" came back strong and won three straight from the Moderns Saturday evening. The Ideals have now won four while the Moderns have taken but two. The next set of games tells the story of which team will set up the goose dinner. The scores:

WOMEN ON DUTY AS TRAFFIC COPS IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK.—Woman traffic cops made their bow to the New York public Monday. At all intersections in the vicinity of public schools woman police reserves were on duty. They were called out to replace 2,500 patrolmen who are now on duty protecting milk wagons during the milk handlers' strike.

Most of the women reserves are housewives, but among the number are business women, lawyers, and physicians.

Whistles are the sole weapons of the volunteer force. All wore a uniform consisting of a dark blue jacket and skirt with a light blue vest and a semi-military cap. Permission has been granted for the use of umbrellas in case of rain.

FREEMAN BEGINS WORK FOR ANOTHER TITLE GO

CHICAGO, Ill.—Sailor Friedman, west side lightweight, will resume training Monday at the Arcade for a number of pending matches. The boxer's manager is in New York, where he expects to close with Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, for a fifteen round decision bout.

The local battler Sunday asserted he has not closed with Johnny Mendelsohn of Milwaukee and has no intentions of doing so unless the promoters raise their ante. Freedman believes he is an attraction because of his showing against Leonard last week in Philadelphia, and if the promoters want his services they must pay the price.

Conduit Lowered

With no interference of communication a large conduit carrying many electric lights was lowered a distance of 12 feet to meet the demands of a change of grade.

New York's Fire Dept.

The New York fire department is equipped with a truck carrying two 5,000 candle-power searchlights and five portable lights of 1,000 candle power for use at fires.

Fullback—Brandt, Northwestern.

BY CLARENCE ABENDROTH

Choosing an all state team this year is a task more simple than in other years because there were less stars developed.

Ripon had the best scoring team in the conference and looked like the winner of the championship until the Crimson failed in a critical moment. Lawrence won the title and had the best reserve power. Beloit played flashy football but once, and that time she nosed Ripon out of the second berth. Carroll, with nearly all new material, did not play together until the end of the season.

The above team could execute close and open attacks with equal success and would be fortified with good punters, open field runners, line plungers, passers and receivers of passes.

CONFISCATED DEER SOLD TO PUBLIC BY CONSERVATION BOARD

MADISON, Wis.—The conservation commission has now entered upon its annual enterprise in dealing in meat—only it is restricted to the sale of confiscated venison. Over $5,000 was realized by the commission last year through the sale of the confiscated deer.

The first shipment of confiscated deer consisted of six does received by the commission Saturday afternoon in the northern part of the state. The meat is sold at 20 cents a pound but the commission has so many standing orders that it is doubtful whether any will be placed upon public sale this year.

WEST POINT TEAM FIRES ITS MASCOT BROUGHT NO LUCK

NEW YORK.—Jinx, the stubborn one-eyed army mule, the West Point cadets borrowed from the Fort Bloom remount station for a football Mascot, has been fired—kicked out.

Braying his dissatisfaction Jinx started on his homeward journey without a wisp of hay or a single oat. He blinked his good sight eye and made a move to project his rear hoofs in the general direction of two cadet onlookers, but they anticipated him.

GREENLEAF TO MEET ARTHUR WOODS IN CHALLENGE MATCH

NEW YORK.—Ralph Greenleaf, who won the world's pocket billiard championship for the third successive time in the recent tournament at Philadelphia will defend his title in a challenge match here December 21, 22 and 23 against Arthur Woods of Minneapolis.

The Run of the Cards

Does luck at cards really average itself out in the long run? Theory says yes; but a somewhat extensive experience has convinced one expert, Mr. Ernest Berglioft, that certain players are persistently bad card-lobbers, certain others exceptionally good ones. If this be admitted though the hard-headed mathematician will deny it, the statistics that have come under my notice are vitiated at the source, says Mr. Berglioft.

YOU MAY PURCHASE MEMBERSHIP CARDS TODAY AND TUESDAY

Did you get a membership card of the La Crosse Outdoor Sports association Saturday?

Canvassers working but a short time, Saturday were unable to cover the entire territory assigned them thus the time of the membership campaign has been carried over until Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Those who were not approached on Saturday and desire to purchase a membership card may get them from Mr. E. G. Von Wald, at the Von Wald-Endessen clothing store on Main street.

SPORT BRIEFS

PARIS.—Capt. Albert De Joannis, who accompanied Mlle. Lenglen."

DALLAS OFFERS M'MILLIN $7,000 TO TURN COACH

DALLAS, Texas.—"Bo" McMillin, quarterback and captain of the famous Centre college eleven, will coach the Dallas university football team next year, if what is said to be the most attractive offer ever made to a youthful gridiron star is accepted.

McMillin has been offered $7,000, according to officials of the university. McMillin has not been heard from, but the university authorities are expecting a favorable reply.

McMillin is reported to have been made an attractive offer by the Howard college of Birmingham, Ala. However, university men here are expecting that the fact that McMillin is a native Texan will weigh in their favor. This is McMillin's last year with Centre.

How Bats Avoid Obstacles

The bat flying around is enabled to avoid obstacles by its acute ear. The animal makes a peculiar noise in flying which is hardly discernible to humans, but the echo of this from the surface of the obstacle enables the bat to fly around it.

SUSPEND ORDER TO CUT COMPENSATION OF DISABLED VETS

Protests of Service Men and State Officials Prove Effective

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Upwards of 26,000 disabled soldiers, scheduled to lose from $5 to $100 a month of government assistance while in placement training, were informed on Saturday that this order is suspended. The suspension of the order is presumed to have been caused through the protests of ex-service men's organizations who enlisted the aid of Governor Blaine in Wisconsin, and other state officials throughout the country.

Some two weeks agoit was learned that acting chief P. S. Hasty of the rehabilitation division, acting chief C. S. veterans' bureau had issued an order effective Dec. 1 that would have cut the pay of upwards of 20,000 disabled men in placement training. Under this order if a man were drawing $100 a month from the government and another $75 from his employer, while learning his new trade instead of receiving the total of $175 he would only have received from $105 to $115, through proportionate reductions of the government pay. Ex-service men in placement training throughout the country protested on this order, claiming that it was a change of forces in mid-stream and that it was against all the principle of just compensation.

This is the second order of similar contents that has been suspended by the government before it went into effect. A somewhat similar order was issued in 1920 but subsequently cancelled. Ex-service men in placement training in Wisconsin numbering close to 500 sent representatives to the governor and Governor Blaine wired his protest a week ago in their behalf. The order is now suspended and with no intimation of whether it will be put into effect at a later date it is not known whether or not it will eventually be finally cancelled.

Pulverized Wood

In France there are five or six factories which were recently established for the purpose of supplying "pulverized" cotton or wool now made use of for a number of purposes. These materials are supplied in a form as fine as woodflour.

In destroying these ships, do they want to "See America First?"

RAIL STOCKS STRONG

Lead Trading on Stock Exchange With Advances of 1 to 3 Points

NEW YORK.—Included among strong rails on the Stock exchange Monday were Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville and Nashville, and preferred shares of Baltimore and Ohio, Ann Arbor, Lake Erie and Western, and Wisconsin Central, these gaining one to three points. Railway equipments, especially American Car, Pressed Steel Car and Railway Steel Spring pfd., rose two to four points. Specialties were featured by the tobacco group, particularly American, Lorillard and Liggett and Meyers, these rising 2 to 3½ points. The only decidedly weak features were Davison Chemical and Sears-Roebuck, which fell two and three points respectively. Heavy buying of representative bonds continued under lead of Liberty issues, but no new high records were made. Call money opened at five percent.

Last week's demand for railway shares was resumed in moderate degree at the outset of the stock market session, the remainder of the list showing no decided trend. Atchison, Chicago-Northwestern, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and St. Paul preferred made fractional gains. The only conspicuous feature in the industrial group was the sale of 4,500 shares of United States Steel at the maximum quotation of 84¼, this representing a small fractional advance. Mexican Petroleum rose one point and Crucible, Utah Copper, Associated Dry Goods and Union Bag also were firm. American Beet Sugar preferred and American Linseed common and preferred reacted to selling pressure.

Invested rails extended their gains later but speculative rails as well as coppers, sugars and utilities became heavy. Trading in government bonds was extensive, some of the Liberty and Victory issues repeating or exceeding previous high records. The close was irregular.

WHEAT MARKET STRONG

Bullish Tendency Imparted to Trading by Poor Crop Reports from Kansas

CHICAGO, Ill.—Reports that the condition of the Kansas winter crop is the lowest ever known for November had a bullish effect on the wheat market Monday in the early dealings. Prospects of a liberal reduction of the visible supply total tended also to lift values. Besides, notice continued to be taken of the smallness of the Japanese rice crop. Initial quotations which ranged from ⅜c to 1c higher with December $1.12¾ to $1.13 and May $1.16 to ½ were followed by a moderate reaction and then by upturns higher than before.

Subsequently a cut of 20,000,000 bushels in the estimated Australian surplus led to much more active buying and to a further advance in prices. The close was unsettled 2¼ to 2⅜c net higher, with December $1.14½ to ⅝ and May $1.17⅜ to ¾.

Assertions that the close of navigation would bring about stoppage of export business gave some advantage to bears in the corn market. After opening ⅛c lower to a like advance with May at 54⅛ to 55c, prices underwent a general sag.

Later the market rallied owing to wheat strength. The close was steady at the same as Saturday's finish to ⅜c higher with May 54⅝ to ⅜c.

Oats were easy with corn, starting unchanged to ⅛c off, May 38½ to ⅝c and then declining all around.

Provisions developed strength.

MAJORITY OF BURCH JURY TO BE WOMEN

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—That a majority of the jurors in the trial of Arthur C. Burch for the alleged murder of J. Belton Kennedy would be women seemed probable Monday. Indications were the jury would be completed and sworn into the day or Tuesday.

PROGRESSIVE PLANS MARK SCHOOL BOARD CONVENTION TALKS

Interesting Discussions of Great Interest to Rural Schools are Heard

The annual school board and teachers' convention for the county of La Crosse, was held at the School of Agriculture in Onalaska, on Tuesday, November 22. The weather was most favorable and a large crowd was present at both the forenoon and the afternoon sessions. Three hundred were present.

Superintendent Blanche Chamberlin opened the meeting with a few words of greeting, followed by Prof. Merton J. Lyon of the La Crosse State Normal school, who led in community singing for a short period.

Much to the regret of many of those present Miss Olga Strandrud was unable to appear on the program as announced. The serious illness of her mother at one of the city hospitals was the cause of her absence. The Girls' Glee club which had been prepared under her direction gave a very pleasing group of Mother Goose songs, Miss Ellen Teare, domestic science teacher at the school, accompanied them at the piano.

Need Community Meets

Mr. L. D. Hatch, principal of the School of Agriculture, gave an address of welcome in which he urged more community meetings in the rural school buildings, where parents and teachers could meet on a level. He also invited the people of the county to make use of the agricultural school building at any time and in any way they see fit.

Miss Mildred Dale of the Walker school, entertained the audience with two songs sung by pupils from her school. The first was an Indian song, in which two of her pupils appeared in costume. The second was "Wisconsin Evermore," the new state song which won first in a contest held in Milwaukee in November during the session of the Wisconsin Teachers' association. It was sung by boys and girls.

Miss Dunlap Talks

Miss Pearl Dunlap, the new supervising teacher, in a few well chosen words, expressed her appreciation of the new work to which she has been called and asked for the hearty cooperation of teachers and members of school boards. She then took charge of the hot lunch discussion and stated that mothers tell her that when lunches were eaten cold, the children usually brought home part of the lunch they carried to school; but since hot lunches have been put into the schools, the children not only eat all of their lunch, but ask for more to take with them. Her reasonable conclusion is that without the hot lunch, children do not eat as much as their bodies require, and hence they cannot work to their fullest capacity.

The discussion was entered into by Miss Eva Ashland of the Brookside school; Miss Elma Johnson of the Adams Valley school; Miss Estelle Severson of the Burr Oak school; Miss Ruth Horlhan of the Long Coulee school; and Miss Mildred Dale of the Walker school. The following ladies also spoke in favor of hot lunches Mrs. W. J. Dawson of Smith's Valley; Mrs. Howard Kinney of Campbell, and Mrs. Alex Storandt of Farmington, the discussion being closed by Mr. Eugene Bosshard of Bangor. A great deal was said during the period in favor of the hot lunch, and not one word was ventured against it. It was stated that about seventy per cent of the rural schools of the country are serving hot lunches.

On Rural Schools

The last period of the forenoon session was occupied by Mr. A. A. Thompson of Madison, supervisor of rural schools. His topic was "Essentials of First Class Rural Schools." Mr. Thompson stated that he was sorry to have to talk about first class rural schools. He said when a district builds a new modern one-department building, it is fixing it onto that community for the next fifty or seventy-five years. He declared that it is a tragedy to do such a thing when better conditions are just within our grasp if we will but see them. He referred to consolidation. He urged all districts to patch up their old buildings if possible and make them serve just a few years longer till time is ripe for consolidation. A few districts in the state are so isolated, due to the topography peculiar to that region, that consolidation would not be advisable. To such, he enumerated the essentials of a first class school as follows: The building should face the sunny south; there should be one main room about 28x32 feet, and three smaller rooms at the rear to be used as domestic service room, teachers' room and library; near the entrance should be two cloak rooms, each containing a chemical toilet; under the whole building there should be a basement containing a furnace, the windows should be on the east side of the building, beginning eight feet from the front of the room and banked solid to four feet from the rear; the top of the window should be six inches from the ceiling, and the sill, about three feet from the floor; there should be good ventilation, adjustable seats, slate blackboards, an attractive entrance to the building, and playground equipment consisting at least of a giant stride, a swing outfit and teeter boards.

Dinner is Served

After the enrollment of teachers, school board members and visitors, all repaired to the dining room on the second floor, where a sumptuous dinner was served by the students of the school under the supervision of Miss Ellen Teare, teacher of domestic science. About 260 were served at the noon hour.

The afternoon session was opened with singing consisting of yells, rounds, old favorite songs, and "On Wisconsin led by Prof. Lyon. Miss Elsie Burkhardt, the county nurse, spoke briefly explaining the health credit system that is being carried out in the schools, and urging parents to co-operate with the teachers. She explained that this work is required, not to put an extra burden on the teacher, but to make the work easier in the future.

"Preparing the Child For Life" was the subject of a talk given by Prof. Merton J. Lyon, head of the manual training department of the La Crosse State Normal school. Mr. Lyon stated that a cheap pool room does more damage to a town than two or three churches can counteract; and that voters who permit such places to remain and spread their evil influence are responsible for the failure to turn out intelligent and loyal citizens among the boys and girls. In the same way, parents, who refuse to uphold the prohibition amendment which is now a part of the statute, are inbreeding into the boys and girls a disrespect for the laws under which they must live, which leads to a down grade that is hard to stop. Mr. Lyon stated that without question, part of the responsibility for the crime wave that is at present sweeping the country, is due to criticisms that have been made on the prohibition amendment. "The community is responsible for furnishing the very best school it is possible to have," he declared, stating that there can never be a permanent "back to the farm" movement, until the country has just as good schools as the city, the only solution of which is consolidation. While our country has great resources, and has made wonderful strides and advances, and has taken much pleasure in its accomodishments, it has overlooked its greatest natural asset—its boys and girls. He said: "As is the life of the boy or girl, so will the life of the nation be." Mr. Lyon quoted from the bible, "For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also" and when we realize that there is no treasure on earth, no gift from God to man that compares in value to boys and girls, when we realize that the future of the human race depends upon them and what we give them, then and not until then we will be ready to assume the responsibility of providing for those treasures of ours the very best environment that time and thought and money can provide. Mr. Lyon urged that we lay aside petty issues and keep before us the one big issue—the boys and girls.

Plans Visiting Day

Supt. Chamberlin announced the plans of her department to have a visiting day for the teachers in each township, when all schools in that township, except one, will close and the teachers will gather at that school to see regular school work done. At the close of the day discussions will take place, and it is hoped that much good will result. She also spoke of the Patrons' Reading Circle, which is being introduced into the county this year. Four districts are organizing such circles and she hopes several others will follow.

Mr. Beery, director of music of the La Crosse State Normal school, at this point favored the audience with several vocal selections to his own accompaniment on the piano. His singing pleased his hearers and he responded to two hearty encores.

Mr. Thompson spoke in the afternoon on the consolidation of schools. He compared the development of the creamery and the cheese factory to that of the consolidated school. Though there were many opponents they came on gradually and are now here to stay. In the same way he says consolidation is coming as it must come and we might just as well face the situation first as last.

Honorable John S. Donald, former secretary of state, was present and spoke briefly on farm accounts, its value to farmers, and its introduction into the schools.

The meeting was an inspirational one throughout. Considering the condition of the roads it was very gratifying to find near'y all of the remote districts represented by the teacher and by one or more members of the school board. This shows that the people realize the importance of their school and are glad to receive suggestions for improving conditions. —(By a school board member).

AMERICAN GIVES ART COLLECTION TO CITY OF PARIS

Gift Accompanied by Funds for Installation of Collection in Little Palace

PARIS.—The deed of gift by which the City of Paris becomes possessor of the art collections of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tuck, with 1,000,000 francs for their installation in the Petit Palais, Champs Elysees, has just been signed. Mr. Tuck is an American philanthropist who has long lived in Paris.

These collections include tapestries, tapestried furniture, furniture, pictures, china, Sevres and Saxony porcelains, Battersea enamels, watches and several articles connected with Benjamin Franklin.

Of the tapestries, the principal piece is "Psyche led by Zephyr into the Palace of Love" and "Psyche showing her riches to her Sisters," manufactured at Beauvais, after designs by Boucher and formerly in possession of the Dukes of Marlborough at Blenheim.

Among the furniture is a sofan chair, of unusual model, painted by Jean Berain, which was made for Madame de Chartres, niece of Louis XIV.

The pictures include some rare Primitives, "La Belle Jardiniere" by Boucher and two Fragonards.

Benjamin Franklin is represented by his portrait by Creuze, another portrait attributed to Duplessis, a plaster statuette by Caffieri, probably a model made by the King's order for copying by the Sevres porcelain manufactory, a terra-cotta bust by Houdon (1778), a portrait in wax by Madame Tussaud, and several terra-cotta medallions by J. B. Nini.

Edward Tuck is a retired banker, born in Exeter, N. H., 1842, who graduated at Dartmouth in 1862, where later he founded the Tuck School by a donation of $100,000. He was United States Vice-Consul at Paris in 1885-66. He built the American Hospital in Paris and with his wife, Julia Stoll, has been a great benefactor to the town of Rock, close by which he lives and to which he has given a hospital and public park.

He has made many gifts to Mal-maison, former residence of Napoleon, which is just outside the gates of M. Tuck's country house among them, the iron bed on which Napoleon died and a rose garden containing all the kinds of roses that Josephine once grew there.

NORMANNA SCORES BIG IN CONCERT SUNDAY EVENING

Delightful Musical Event Enjoyed at the Trinity Lutheran Church

We can think of no more satisfying way to spend a Sunday evening than at such a concert as Normanna gave yesterday. We have expressed our pleasure in the thoughtful, enthusiastic and truly artistic work of this chorus too often to need to repeat such expression on this occassion. To say that it is an unqualified pleasure to hear again the dramatic Landfriending, that the chorus never sounded better balanced and blended than it did in the "Beautiful Saviour" is enough.

Mr. E. O. Forseth too, who can always be counted on to give real pleasure, was at his best in the Gounod "Jerusalem" and one could hardly regret properly the absence of that unknown soprano, when it meant an additional song from Normanna's director.

The songerkor was assisted by Mr. L. Didrick at the organ and by Prof. P. Peterson, violinist. The latter certainly holds his own, for though memory in such matters is tricky the writer has childish recollections of the "Legende" as played by Mr. Peterson and does not feel that the years have changed his rendition of it perceptibly.

There are several things about the Normanna concerts that deserve favorable comment besides the excellent music. One of them is the way in which this organization is bringing its music on successive occasions to distinctly different audiences in La Crosse. The Trinity Lutheran Church was well filled and the audience showed every sign of pleasure and appreciation as had the South Side audience which listened to Normanna several weeks ago. This making it easy for people to hear good music occasionally is worth while, would that there were more organizations so well fitted to meet this public need.—H. MARGARET JOSTEN.

MANCHESTER, Eng. — Strong, standardized "truck" airplanes are being planned to carry freight between such cities as Manchester and Lyons. Railways are showing a growing interest in commercial airplanes.
